EnCor Dluhopisový (Bond)

EnCor Dluhopisový, otevřený podílový fond ("OPF") class B

September 2025

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The investment objective of the Fund is to achieve a persistent return with a low level of volatility over the long term and thus to overhaul the rate of inflation and returns on bank deposits in the long run. For this purpose, the Fund invests mainly in high-quality corporate bonds from issuers from the Czech Republic, supplemented by issuers from the EU and possibly other countries, in money market instruments, reverse repo operations and other fixed income instruments. To ensure stability, the fund will use hedging of exchange rate risk against CZK, or interest rate risk using financial derivatives. Current coupons are reinvested and are further appreciated. The Fund does not actively track any index or benchmark.

PORTFOLIO MANAGER'S COMMENTARY

European bond markets largely ignored the deterioration in the political situation in France through September. The Fund's NAV moved up 0.34% last month, largely due to coupon income from the portfolio's holdings. Sluggish Euro-area economic growth and inflation readings is acting as an anchor for bond prices. Eurozone inflation, at 2.2% year-on-year for September, is very close to the target of 2%. The ECB is thus in a wait-and-see mode, with no indication that policy interest rates will be cut from the present 2.0% level for the moment. The same logic applies to the CNB, which held local currency interest rates at 3.5% last month. Markets foresee some longer-term upward pressure on Czech inflation, from September's rate of 2.3% year-on-year, in part due to the victory of ANO in early October's General Election. We continued to diversify the portfolio in September, buying new positions in the 2030 issues of Polish commercial real estate player DL Invest and Moneta Money Bank. These purchases took the number of holdings to 52 and the weightings in the bank and real estate sectors to 22% and 14% respectively.
